

2.3.1. How can I find a journal in PoliBuscador?

UPV Libraries have an extensive collection of printed and electronic journals which can be searched via PoliBuscador by entering the title or ISSN in the search box.

You also have a shortcut to search only for e-journals:

In the results list, click on the title and access the journal's information: If it is in electronic format, you will see the link to the journal.

If it is in printed format, you will see the libraries where it can be found, with a link to the numbers available.

Printed journals will either be free to access or archived, depending on the library. Order it at the library desk. You can borrow it for up to 7 days.

Electronic journals can only be accessed from outside UPV if connected to the network via VPN, following the Infoaccess instructions.
