

4.4.2 The transversal activities offered from the Doctoral School

The UPV Doctoral School offers a number of transversal courses for PhD students. These courses will be taught online and will not mean additional fees for the student. The inscription to the courses will be made from the application of "Thesis Management" (access form your UPV intranet) from September to December. The courses will be taught in the second semester.

Students who must complete credits for training complements within any of the programs may participate in transversal training activities.

You can get more information about the transversal training offer in this link.